

Joe Biden: Puppet President

MY INITIAL concern with a title like “Joe Biden: Puppet President” is that the reader might assume he’s the only puppet president, or that I’m insinuating as much, when in fact the total opposite is true. They’re all puppets. Trump was also a puppet, just as assuredly as Obama and the Clinton’s and the Bush and Sons were puppets. They’re all working for someone, and it’s not the American people. The defining difference is that most of us are just now waking up to that fact and it’s as clear as our hand in front of our face, but it wasn’t always so. I’ll speak for myself when saying I woke up during the Obama administration, and so, I saw Trump coming from a mile away.

It's one thing for me to tell you Biden is a puppet president and quite another to show evidence for my allegation. That's a tall order, but I aim to do it—little by little. What I'm saying is, I expect this to be a growing document. We will start out with several short pages and then, over the coming weeks and months, watch this puppy grow. A request was sent out among my readership for any information on Creepy Joe's string attachments and they were on top of it. Within hours, my mailbox was overflowing with incoming evidence, and I thought to myself: "What in the flat and motionless plane have I gotten myself into?"

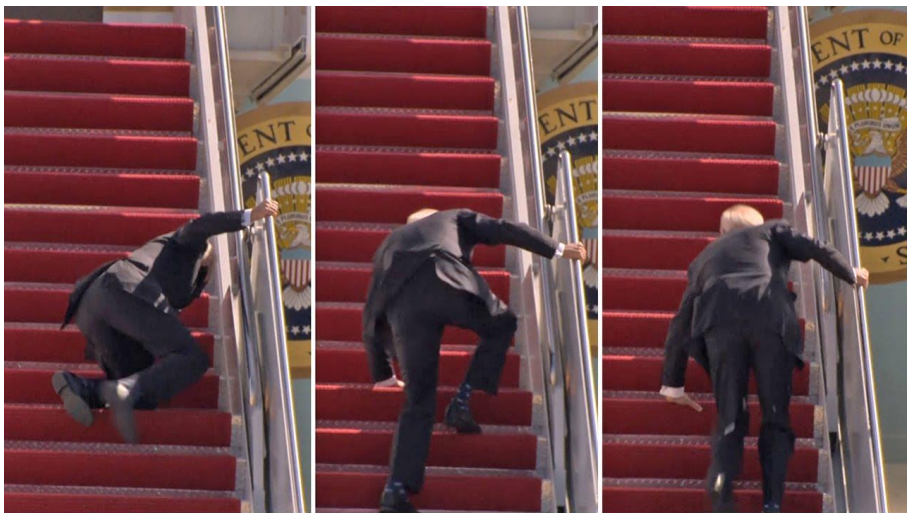

Really though, it's so painfully obvious that people cannot see it. Creepy Joe is a puppet. But not only Joe; he is yet another puppet in a long line of Pinocchio actors. Convincing everyone of that fact however is not my job. I'm just here to present a case.

My first course of action, when rising out of bed this morning, was a reconnaissance mission in the Intel-net, scrounging for any evidence that others had come to similar conclusions. The return fire was only marginally impressive—if that. Yes, it’s painfully obvious. Joe Biden is perceived by many as a puppet, but only within their programmed political paradigm. Patriotism is a gripe. People still believe the right hand of politics matters, and what needs to be done is a vote by the silent majority, and that the left is a force which needs reckoned with, or that their vote is being stolen from them, when in fact the left and the right are both wings from the same bird. All we are ever given is the illusion of choice. The truth is, they’re all actors. Every one of them.

Readers ask me all the time how we’re supposed to combat a Cabal of evil if not choosing a side. Firstly, get off the stage if you find yourself on one, because that’s only a platform for actors. And secondly, stop sitting in the audience. Why would you? Just get up and walk out of the theater. It’s difficult indeed playing an actor if nobody is around to witness the performance witchcraft. That’s the only way to make the Satanic Elite powerless, you know, to altogether stop playing their game. But that right there is the tall order. Proving to everyone that the world is a stage is the easy part. Getting people to flee Babylon, well... the road is narrow, isn’t it?

Someone will accuse me of being a diddle-daddle. Let’s hop straight to it then. The following report derives from my research partner, Jason123. What is obvious is that Joe Biden is a walking numbers ritual. Mind you, he is not the one coming up with the numbers. A higher power is. All he can do is listen to the voice in his earpiece and try not to trip while walking up the staircase on Air Force One, which happens from time to time.

The numbers ceremony goes way back in the life of Joe Biden. They probably begin with his father, Joseph Biden Sr. The Wikipedia has an entire article on the Biden family. They're Irish immigrants. We are immediately told how they are "prominent in law, education, activism and politics." Well, I have my suspicions of Pappa Joe. You shall see why soon hereafter.

In 1972, Biden defeated Republican incumbent J. Caleb Boggs to become the junior U.S. senator from Delaware. He was the only Democrat willing to challenge Boggs.^[38] With minimal campaign funds, he was given no chance of winning.^[13] Family members managed and staffed the campaign, which relied on meeting voters face-to-face and hand-distributing position papers,^[53] an approach made feasible by Delaware's small size.^[40] He received help from the AFL-CIO and Democratic pollster Patrick Caddell.^[38]

1972 is the year when Biden defeated Republican incumbent J. Caleb Boggs to become the junior U.S. senator from Delaware. The Wiki tells us he was the only Democrat willing to challenge Boggs, that he did so with minimal campaign funds, and to the point that he was given no chance of a win. Seriously, The Boys clapping away at the typewriter are still putting all their chips down on the prospect that you won't be able to tell the difference between a fabricated reality and the authentic, the latter of which the official narrative holds little to none. In the end, his win came down to a campaign managed by family members and Delaware's small size. Really? I thought Biden was given no chance of winning. You can't very well claim he has zero chance of the prize if Delaware is small enough that a family of Irish immigrants can pull it off. The claim to impossibility is the illusion intended to further inseminate the American dream into your cognition when in fact he was already selected, telling us that family very much had a part to play in his ascendancy.

Death of wife and daughter

On December 18, 1972, a few weeks after the election, Biden's wife Neilia and one-year-old daughter Naomi were killed in an automobile accident while Christmas shopping in Hockessin, Delaware.^{[26][55]} Neilia's station wagon was hit by a semi-trailer truck as she pulled out from an intersection. Their sons Beau (aged 3) and Hunter (aged 2) survived the accident and were taken to the hospital in fair condition,

Immediately after achieving the impossible, Biden's first wife Neilia Hunter Biden and their one-year-old daughter Naomi were killed in a car wreck while in route to pick out a Christmas tree. The date was December 18, 1972. Biden hadn't even been sworn in as senator yet. Either Neilia Biden's death was a hoax, and she was carted off in the gurney to Fantasy Island, or another Satanic sacrifice is at play. Either way,
