

Gold Mysteries & Satan's Little Season

by Edgar D. Trollip

Gold was a pretty big subject at school. Historically speaking, the excavations thereof had a significant impact on the formation of Southern Africa and the psyche of the people. I even remember school outings to Gold Reef City where a gold expert would tell you the history of gold and have some gold bars on display. This was really quite an experience even though I feel I was too young to really appreciate what was happening. It was not every day you see a gold bar, you know.

Even though gold deposits have been deteriorating over the years of mining it is still one of South Africa's largest exports. I really love history and more specifically South African history. As I went over the facts I could not help but compare the gold rushes to the timeframe of the potential release of HaSatan. I was not prepared for what I was about to find. This probably has to be one of the weirdest investigations I have done thus far.

HISTORY & BIBLICAL EVENTS

TIMELINE 536-CURRENT

536 WORST YEAR TO BE ALIVE

Medieval scholars identified 536 as "the worst year to be alive" because of the extreme weather events temperatures in Europe & China to decline and resulting in crop failures and famine for over a year.

END OF MILLENNIAL

If the onset of the MK was in the region of 536 the end had to be a thousand years later more or less in the region of 1536.

1700'S RELEASE OF HASATAN

We do see a return of the gods during the renaissance period with the climax in the preamble to the French revolution. Goddess worship, Freemasonry, the cult of reason, worship of the "supreme being" were some of the activities.

FRENCH REVOLUTION

I have my reasons to think that the French revolution and the Masonic take over was enshrined with the worship of HaSatan and his release.

1800'S GOLD RUSHES

With the influx of underground activity and release of HaSatan, many materials in the ground could have been brought to the surface during mud floods &

The human obsession with gold is uncanny. The love of money is the root of all evil, right? Did people not read their Bibles at some stage? Or wait, people are still not reading their Bibles. Bro, you need to get with the Holy Writ. Ophir and Solomon's temple are two glaring witnesses to the fact that gold was not scarce during the period it was penned. It also attests to the fact that the tech was always available to mine gold, even from 600 BC. Yes, gold was still valued. We read the following:

And she (the queen of Sheba) gave to Solomon a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and very many spices, and precious stones: there had not come any other spices so abundant as those which the queen of Saba gave to king Solomon.

1 Kings 10:10 (NKJV)

I wonder what that amounts to in real terms today? Oh, here it is. According to Google 120 talents of gold today would be equivalent to $292,915,190. But wait, there's more.

And the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold. Besides the tributes of them that were subjects, both merchants and all the kings of the country beyond the river, and of the princess of the land. And Solomon made three hundred spears of beaten gold: three hundred shekels of gold were upon one spear. And three hundred shields of beaten gold: and three pounds of gold were in one shield: and the king put them in the house of the forest of Lebanon. And the king made a great ivory throne, and gilded it with pure gold. The throne had six steps, and calves in bold relief to the throne behind it, and side-pieces on either hand of the place of the seat, and two lions standing by the side-pieces, and twelve lions standing there on the six steps on either side: it was not done in any other kingdom. And all the vessels made by Solomon were of gold, and the lavers were golden, and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon were of pure gold; there was no silver, for it was not accounted of in the days of Solomon. For Solomon had a ship of Tharsis in the sea with the ships of Chiram: one ship came to the king every three years out of Tharsis, laden with gold and silver, and wrought stones, and hewn stones.*

1 Kings 10:14-22 (LXX)

If you are an economics buff, 666 talents of gold equals $1,595,087,838 in real terms. Did you catch the triple 6 reference though? Was gold corrupted and seen as the mark of the beast? I will leave that investigation to you. A fair case can be made that the money would become corrupt when the age of anti-Christ comes to fruition. That is another conversation for another time. Gold was so abundant during Solomon's reign, silver was seen as a common thing. Almost like a penny laying in the parking lot. It was hardly worth the effort to pick it up. It seems it was like that with silver.

What happened to all that gold? It is hard to tell after being chaperoned off to Babylon. It probably somehow ended up in the queen's secret treasury. The royals do claim their royal lineage descent from David you know. Hilarious. Now keep in mind it doesn't really matter in whose possession the gold is. It all belongs to El Elyon (The Most High).

For thus saith the Lord Almighty; Yet once I will shake the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry; and I will shake all nations, and the choice of all the nations shall come: and I will fill this house with glory, saith the Lord Almighty. Mine is the silver, and mine the gold, saith the Lord Almighty.

Haggai 2:7-9 (LXX)

Anyways, my focus will be mainly on the period of the gold rushes. Here, in sunny South Africa, we had our own gold rushes. What does surprise me is the specific period gold rushes were drawing huge prospector numbers. Nearly half of the world's total mined gold came from the Witwatersrand. I grew up in Joburg, so it happened to be in my valley. Before we get stuck in the trenches of the Gold Rushes have you ever given much thought on how gold is formed? I haven't. Except for odd historical accounts of people through alchemical methods trying to 'make' gold not much was taught on school level on how gold was formed. So, I did the most scientific search possible at my disposal and reverted to the interweb.

How is gold formed?

I was very ill prepared for what I was about to find. I was wondering why gold is so scarce, or is it? There has to be a special and rare process or occurrence that forms such a highly valued substance. Except for that, how did all the gold get stuck in the dirt of the earth in the first place? Science does have the weirdest explanation by far. Let's allow them to speak for themselves. Try to keep a straight face. Here goes. According to thoughtco.com:

While nuclear fusion within the Sun makes many elements, the Sun cannot synthesize gold. The considerable energy required to make gold only occurs when stars explode in a supernova or when neutron stars collide. Under these extreme conditions, heavy elements form via the rapid neutron-capture process or r-process.

All of the gold found on Earth came from the debris of dead stars. As the Earth formed, heavy elements such as iron and gold sank toward the planet's core. If no other event had occurred, there would be no gold in the Earth's crust. But, around 4 billion years ago, Earth was bombarded by asteroid impacts. These impacts stirred the deeper layers of the planet and forced some gold into the mantle and crust.

Even the gold experts confirm that gold comes from “outer space” and supernovas. For instance sbcgold.com says:

By studying ancient rock samples with high-precision instruments, scientists have found evidence that accessible gold, or the gold that is technologically and economically feasible to reach on the surface of the planet, arrived via asteroids when the earth was still fairly young.

...Scientists say gold is actually ten times more common in the planet's crust than they would expect it to be if it came here when the earth was still forming and molten hot. This lends credence to their conclusion that gold must have arrived on earth later, and it is likely that asteroids carried it here. It is fair to conclude that gold comes from outer space.

Thank you science! Gold comes from “space” according to science. Science seems to be more esoteric than I initially thought. This could be corrected on many levels, especially biblically speaking. What about the asteroids slamming into earth? I know if you subscribe to biblical cosmology that would be a difficult pill to swallow. However, if you substitute the word “asteroids” with “watchers” or “fallen angels” it does make sense.

The asteroid shower millions of billions of moons ago is hilarious. And how is science proving that? I would really love to know. Better yet, many other resources provide a similar explanation. So there you have it. Did we trade dinos for gold with the asteroid shower? I don't know. So this is what we have so far: when stars explode or collide the energy upon impact creates debris that land upon the earth. According to science this is. The debris that lands on earth contains gold. We do not believe that stars are suns or floating gas balls. We believe in the Word of the Most High. Stars are heavenly beings or even spirits if you will. We that in mind let's consider the Genesis 6 watcher incursion:

...the sons of God having seen the daughters of men that they were beautiful, took to themselves wives of all whom they chose.

And the Lord God said, My Spirit shall certainly not remain among these men for ever, because they are flesh, but their days shall be an hundred and twenty years.

Now the giants were upon the earth in those days; and after that when the sons of God were wont to go in to the daughters of men, they bore to them, those were the giants of old, the men of renown.

Genesis 6:2-4 (LXX)

And it came to pass when the children of men had multiplied that in those days were born unto them beautiful and comely daughters. And the angels, the children of the heaven, saw and lusted after them, and said to one another: 'Come, let us choose us wives from among the children of men and beget us children.'

And Semjâzâ, who was their leader, said unto them: 'I fear ye will not indeed agree to do this deed, and I alone shall have to pay the penalty of a great sin.' And they all answered him and said: 'Let us all swear an oath, and all bind ourselves by mutual imprecations not to abandon this plan but to do this thing.' Then sware they all together and bound themselves by mutual imprecations upon it. And they were in all two hundred; who descended [in the days] of Jared on the summit of Mount Hermon, and they called it Mount Hermon, because they had sworn and bound themselves by mutual imprecations upon it.

We do see celestial beings at war in the scripture every now and then and I think that it might very well be that reoccurring. Two examples that come to mind are the war in heaven described in Revelation 12 or the Nurumberg aerial phenomenon in 1561. The former we even verify and measure from various sources. What the science is telling is about the Star Wars though, literal stars at war almost, I am not sure how that would be verified. Unless you can send someone back in time billions of years and billions of galaxies away. Godspeed my friend.

Could the impact of fallen angels landing on the earth have created a seismic event that burst with energy on a neutron level that gold could have been formed as a product? Possibly. I am not sure if watchers come in with smooth landings or crash into the crust of the earth like meteors. Maybe a combination depending on how they were dispatched in the first place.

Or could the battle have preceded Tohu wa bobu. An epic battle of the hosts could have ensued pre-Genesis 1:2. What if their impact and collision energy creates the gold deposits? Just remember the stars, asteroids or dying stars are referring to the angelic entities in my view. Then you are landing on the right track also. In the Nuremberg illustration it does seem like some of the balls or entities crash to the earth and create CO2 emissions that should grab Greta Thunberg's attention.

Did you notice the sun is out during the depictions of Star Wars: Nuremberg-episode. We will later make some connections, just remind me. However, thoughtco.com does go on to explain two other methods that gold can be formed or brought to the surface. Earthquakes and alchemy:

Earthquakes play an important role, as a shifting fault rapidly decompresses mineral-rich water. When the water vaporizes, veins of quartz and gold deposit onto rock surfaces. A similar process occurs within volcanoes.

Japanese physicist Hantaro Nagaoka first synthesized gold by bombarding mercury with neutrons in 1924. While transmuting mercury into gold is easiest, gold can be made from other elements—even lead! Soviet scientists accidentally turned the lead shielding of a nuclear reactor into gold in 1972 and Glenn Seaborg transmuted a trace of gold from lead in 1980.

Did you catch the importance of earthquakes? That could be a tie into the mud floods and the following gold rush(es) we see in the 1800's. More of that a bit later. Except for the hilarious luminous gas ball collisions in space idea and the crashing stars debris landing on earth, the thoughtco.com-explanation led me to the following alternative gold origin options:

- It was created and the gold we have has always been here,
- The blood of gigantic dead creatures turning to gold,

- Destruction of the cities of gold or
- Alchemy or supernatural powers/neutron devices that are able to change elements.

Gold Created In The Beginning

So we already covered the possibility of angelic being landing or crashing or smashing into the earth, like your standard asteroid. But even before that, depending on how your timeline is laid out, Yahuah placed gold and precious stones within the land:

*And a river proceeds out of Edem to water the garden, thence it divides itself into four heads. The name of the one, Phisom, this it is which encircles the whole land of Evilat (Havilah), where there is gold. And the gold of that land is good, there also is carbuncle and emerald.

Genesis 2:10-12 (LXX)

Seems like this was some fine gold and to top it off, some carbuncle and emerald. Emerald and carbuncle can both be found in the High Priest's and the HaSatan breastplate of Ezekiel 28.

*For Jerusalem shall be built up with sapphires and emeralds, and precious stone: thy walls and towers and battlements with pure gold.

*And the streets of Jerusalem shall be paved with beryl and carbuncle and stones of Ophir.

Tobit 13:16-17

Tobit's account lines up neatly with John the revelator and Isaiah the prophet. It almost makes me wonder if all the furnishings in the tabernacle were covered in gold, if some places on the earth were initially covered in gold. This is pure speculation on my part but a hunch I think worth considering. We see new Jerusalem paved with gold and precious stones. Paved seems like it should be on the surface. New Jerusalem seems like the original City of Gold complete with precious stones for decoration. More on that shortly. There are surely some more connections to be made here but I do not want to divert our current discussion.

Other ancient sources like the Kolbrin concur with the Genesis-account even though it does point out that the gold was hidden in the earth:

There were great land masses and high mountains, wide barren places and heaving waters. Fertile greenness covered the land and abundant life swarmed in the seas, for now Earth throbbed with the energy of life.

Metals lay hidden in her rocks and precious stones within the soil. Gold and silver were scattered and secreted. There was copper for tools and forest of timber. There were swamps of reeds and stone for every purpose. Everything was prepared, everything was ready, and now Earth awaited the coming of man.

Kolbrin: Book of Creation 1

Yes, that is probably the best and the most common explanation: gold was formed at the point of creation. I am still wondering how is it then that gold rushes happened mainly in a single century? How is gold prevalent and almost common like in Solomon's reign and less common other times. Yes, most of it could have been made during the creation account. I agree, but the creation account does not explain the gold rushes of the 1800's or the exorbitant extraction of gold during certain short periods, like the reign of Solomon. I think there is a more spiritual or supernatural explanation pertaining to it. That is why we need to go deeper down the mineshaft.

Destruction of the Cities of Gold

This will not be an origin story but possibly a redistribution of the gold explanation. I will try not to unpack the cities extensively otherwise that would completely detour our current expedition. I did feel it was worth a mention especially if there is a chance that they have been destroyed or defaced in past reset events or stripped by some of our controllers. Just keep in mind I do think most of the golden decked cities of the past have been destroyed or defaced.

And their silver and their gold shall in nowise be able to rescue them in the day of the Lord's wrath; but the whole land shall be devoured by the fire of his jealousy; for he will bring a speedy destruction on all them that inhabit the land.

Zephaniah 1:18 (LXX)

If you have ever watched the Dreamworks production of the Road to El Dorado, the city of gold seems almost similar to new Jerusalem especially if you are going with the idea that new Jerusalem could be a pyramid instead of a cube shape. You can even see some rivers and trees as a version of the river of life and the trees of life that grow beside the river. It does seem obvious to me the idea of New Jerusalem was what they were going for. As I studied it out I found many “experts” disagree on the city of gold. Scholars have pointed to the possibility that El Dorado was never a golden city, it was a person. “El” can mean man but we know that in Hebrew it means god and “dorado” means gold. So that would mean the man or god of gold.

According to www.grunge.com:

Prior to the 15th century, when the Muisca chose a new leader, they would first require that they seclude themselves in a cave. The ruler was to abstain from the company of women, salted food, and even daylight to cleanse himself.

Then, the new ruler emerged from the cave and went straight to Lake Guatavita. There, he would disrobe and attendants would cover his body with gold dust. They would then take a raft loaded with golden offerings out into the middle of the lake. As a crowd watched, the golden man would fling the offerings into the lake, cementing his place as the people's new leader.

The Spanish called the gold-covered ruler "El Dorado," sparking centuries of myth and speculation. Many began to wonder just where the Muisca got all their gold, suggesting that a people who would fling it into a lake must have more hidden elsewhere.

Hands up if this also reminded you of the WWF-wrestler Goldust. What an odd ritual. I am sure some of the locals went snorkeling for some gold the next day. Chuck some treasure overboard and you can be the new chief in charge. Sounds about right for what most world leaders are doing. Maybe the Muisca wrote the playbook on how to govern nations. Maybe this is where world leaders are taking their wasteful expenditure hints from. I don't know. All I know is it would be very difficult for me to take my ruler seriously if he happened to look like Goldust. Back to cities of gold.

There is said to be seven cities of gold:

1. Cibola,
2. Quivira,
3. Gran Quivira,

4. Totontec,
5. Tiguex,
6. Aixa and
7. Awatovi or Hakitzu.

The Spanish conquistadors' lust for gold drove them to the wildest of places. During the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, dozens of expeditions embarked to seek out the Seven Cities of Gold. All of which accomplished diddly squat. Obviously, that is what we are told.

The older depictions of these buildings (ruins today) were quite yellow or even gold. Now it could be the color of the stones were more sandy at the time giving a gold tone or perhaps these cities were overlaid with gold. Your guess is as good as mine. It does not compare with the current dark brown pale color and green herbage overgrowth. It seems the gold has been stripped off. And obviously the controllers will tell us these cities were never found and all of the explorers were mistaken and the legends were hogwash. Probably the exact story you would tell if you never wanted people to question where the gold went.

For example, take the story of the conquistador Francisco Vázquez de Coronado. He disembarked in the Americas, expecting to be dazzled by glorious buildings made of gold and bedecked in jewels, however all he found were mudbrick villages. Basically his expectation was a type of New Jerusalem. Isn't that interesting? One of the locals explained to him there was a city of great wealth on the other side of the Great Plains, called Quivira. Quivira means great or beautiful if you were wondering. Again the conquistador after managing quite the entourage and practically unlimited supplies, ended up with nothing to show for it.

There are a number of stories similar to this. Many will tell us that this is referring to a place once found in New Mexico, however I think these “Great Plains” the locals mentioned would rather refer to something beyond Antarctica. It also seems possible that some people were seeing some reflections of Heavenly Jerusalem in those parts. Or maybe The Rainbow City written by Malcolm X and Admiral Byrd’s account of land masses and people beyond the southern poles were what he was referring to. We do not have time for that now, please give Noel’s book and paper on the Hidden Wilderness a good read. Could they have seen a reflection of New Jerusalem?

Alchemy Or Supernatural Powers That Change Elements To Gold

For some, the idea of changing other elements to gold may sound fictional. However I do believe that we have so many historical accounts of individuals dedicated to the process of doing just that. Before we get to the alchemical stories let's start with the more supernatural and possibly fictional stories. When we do go over the fictional accounts keep this quote from Tolkien in mind:

“After all, I believe that legends and myths are largely made of ‘truth’, and indeed present aspects of it that can only be received in this mode; and long ago certain truths and modes of this kind were discovered and must always reappear.”

J.R.R. Tolkien, The Letters of J.R.R. Tolkien

One of the more famous cautionary tales include King Midas. King Midas was a ruler of the country of Phrygia in Asia Minor and he was granted the ability to turn any material to gold. It was all fun and games until he turned his daughter into gold. Some variants of the story ends with King Midas bathing in a river and it causes the curse to lift. Midas was freed and the gold powers came to an end and gold was embedded in the river bed.

Another age-old story is the one of Lokus. The story of Lokus overlaps with many other similar gods and combines elements of magic, healing, and ancient wisdom. Among many other 'powers' Lokus could change stones to gold:

So Lokus stood before them and lo, before their eyes he changed stones into gold, and a dog into an ass. He drew wine and milk from an empty pitcher and caused a rod to become a snake.

Kolbrin: Book on the Son of Fire 7

You can find a mixture here of biblical miracles as well one that is not mentioned in the Bible - turning stones to gold. Even in the time of Yahusha we can find sources of people occupying themselves with making gold with magical abilities like Simon Magnus or more commonly known as Simon the sorcerer. In the following excerpt Simon Magus is bragging about all his magical abilities:

I can give the breath of life to images so that those who see them shall think that they are human beings. I can create new plants with life so that they bring forth shoots from the earth that shall blossom in an hour. And if I will throw myself into the fire, I am not burned. I can transform myself and appear to have the faces of two different persons. I can become a sheep and appear as a goat. I can give a beard to an infant. I can fly through the air. I can exhibit gold, make kings, and I can stupefy them and be worshiped. I can be deemed worthy of praises by every person so that they will make an image of me in order to serve and worship me as if a god. And whatever is sought out of the many things that I say, whatever I wish I am able to do...*

The Clementine Recognitions 2:9

I hope you survived Simon's bragging spree. I cut the quote in half just so you know. There was a whole lot more bragging preceding our starting point. I have to admit it is difficult to listen to someone blowing their own horn like this. It does seem that was a common practice among the sorcerers or cult leaders - turning other materials to gold. We see this practice being more scientific with what we today know as alchemy. I am not sure where the overlapping or the superseding of the natural and the supernatural takes place. It is suspicious that during the middle ages the alchemists were more often than not involved in sorcery. In Gold: An Historical Introduction, the author Fathi Habashi has the following to say on the subject of alchemy:

To the medieval alchemists, gold has been regarded as a metal of perfection. They identified it with the sun by virtue of its bright yellow color, and it was given the symbol of a circle with a dot in the center. Gold was so precious that from earliest times man has left no stone unturned in searching for it in nature. It is not surprising, therefore, that humans should have sought to convert other metals into gold.

The agent for transmuting base metals into gold was known as the philosopher's stone. In addition to its transmutatory power, the stone was believed to have the properties of a universal medicine for longevity and immortality. The attempts to transmute base metals into gold and to prolong life indefinitely contributed much to modern chemistry in the form of new chemical substances and laboratory techniques. Alchemical principles have also found their way into modern psychological ideas, notably by the Swiss psychiatrist Carl Jung (1875-1961).

A very common symbol for alchemy was the green lion chowing down on the sun. In texts such as the Rosary of the Philosophers you can find the green lion and the sun. There are many different avenues we can take with the green lion and the sun however, I would just like you to follow the blood that goes into the ground. The blood will become important for a later discussion.

Habasi goes on to explain:

Ancient Egypt is considered the birthplace of alchemy. Zosimos (ca. 350-420), who taught in Alexandria, is the earliest writer known to have practiced alchemy. Because of their lack of knowledge of the composition of common substances some alchemists viewed many ordinary chemical reactions as transmutations. For example, the deposition of copper on iron metal placed in a solution of blue vitriol (copper sulfate), a reaction known since Roman times, was assumed by some to be a transmutation of iron into copper until the late Renaissance...

Through the centuries, gold-making has been alternately encouraged and banned by monarchs and the Church. For example, Diocletian, Emperor of Rome from 284 to 313, fearing that the Egyptians (Egypt was then under the domination of the Roman Empire) might become powerful through their knowledge of alchemy, ordered in AD 296 that all books and manuscripts “which treated the art *of making gold and silver” to be burned. Consequently, only very few Egyptian alchemical works have been preserved. During medieval times, European kings and princes supported alchemists at their courts, hoping to acquire wealth through their work.

No one can serve two masters, right? The kings and royals all had their alchemists in their courts. I know we are told alchemy was mostly unsuccessful but I am not so sure about that. I do understand that is what the puppet masters would have us believe. It would explain how some rulers obtained their wealth almost overnight. Our reserve banks are NOT far off from alchemists. They even went one step further printing money out of thin air. I am not sure if that is better or worse than the alchemists of old. What I do know is that reckless money printing practices devalue the monetary value of fiat currency. It is just a question of time before it becomes worthless.

Except for the ancient alchemical arts and supernatural powers able to turn any matter to gold, there is another similar possibility: particle accelerators. According to researchers at the Weizmann Institute of Science:

...technological developments and invention of particle accelerators have given humanity the ability to conduct artificial transmutation for the first time. By accelerating a neutron beam to a speed close to that of light and projecting it on a metal sheet, protons can be torn out of metal atoms and turned into atoms of other elements. The age-old vision of alchemists was revived in the 1940s, when researchers used this method to make gold atoms from mercury, whose atoms have one more proton than those of gold. Similarly, in 1980, other researchers made gold from bismuth, which has four more protons than gold.

However, this success was mostly theoretical, because the amount of gold created in these experiments was small. Furthermore, the gold created was mostly radioactive, so it was dangerous to humans. A gold atom has 79 protons, but also 118 neutrons that stabilize its nucleus. The gold atoms created in the particle accelerator had a surplus of neutrons, which decayed radioactively over a few days, turning the atoms into different elements.

There's also the question of cost: Using a particle accelerator in the 1980s cost Frederick Soddy, a well-known English radiochemist in the early 20th century, estimated that artificial production of gold would not be practical: "If man ever achieved this further control over Nature, it is quite certain that the last thing he would want to do would be to turn lead or mercury into gold – for the sake of gold." In other words, transmutation into gold is a process that is not worth the investment, and with the existing technologies today does not provide a return on investment. Meanwhile, let us manage with the resources nature offers, at least until future technologies will allow otherwise.

Is it really not worth the investment though? Isn't it funny how the university says, "If man ever achieved this further control over Nature, it is quite certain that the last thing he would want to do would be to turn lead or mercury into gold." Really? The last thing? Talk about overcompensating. Well, apparently CERN did not get the memo regarding the extravagant expenses regarding a particle accelerator and built one anyway. Could that be what they are doing at CERN? Are they creating gold from cheaper metals? Could be one of the things they are up to. I am not saying CERN was set up to create gold as the main objective but while you are at it trying to open portals or the abyss to Abaddon why not create some gold as a side hustle. It might be the byproduct of the normal run-of-mill activities at CERN, you never know.

Blood of Gigantic (Dead) Creatures Turn to Gold

You do remember the green lion's blood pouring to the ground in the previous paragraphs, don't you? I think there is something more to it. I know the symbolism experts have their own interpretations of the green lion trying to consume the sun trying to explain the alchemical relations. However I am thinking that the sun and the lion are merely expressions of the process that leads to the blood that leads to the blood in the ground. I cannot 100% back this theory but I do find it interesting that the Torah tells on many occasions that blood needs go back into the ground, for instance:

I am not saying wherever blood flowed into the ground you will find gold. However I do think it might be part of revitalizing the ground. Blood contains many nutrients that are useful for the ground to be remineralized. That is why blood meal (maily cow's blood) is used for fertilization of soil. Which brings me to my next point. What would happen if we have mass quantities of blood in the soil in the same vicinity? Well, according to various sources such as www.medi-covergenetics.com:

*An adult human body contains approximately 5 liters of blood, which contains different metals such as iron, chromium, and zinc, as well as about 0.2 milligrams of gold!

Have you ever wondered why they call it a “vein of gold”? Now, I do get that it does not sound like much when compared to the average human body. However, what if it were gigantic bodies and masses thereof? Could mass graves of giants and large creatures not have created gold deposits during Noah’s flood as well as smaller flood events?

Roger Spurr from Mudfossil University has been researching the biomass of the earth for years. He has proven many of the mountains, rock formations and so forth to be (once) living beings. Among other treasures in Roger’s collection are gigantic thumbs and toes as well as dragon scales. It was also Roger that brought it to my attention that gold forms in the lowest part of a decaying being’s body. The blood flows to the lowest body parts and over time the decomposition process and chemical process somehow forms small gold deposits. It also has to do with the transference of energy and the dramatic changes of energy levels creates a neutron reaction strong enough to transform blood to gold. For the details of the process please pop Roger an email but that is how I understand his explanation. If you would compare the blood flow in the foot and how it would connect around the ankles you would find striking similarities with the ram’s horn gold on display.

And those are not the only parts of the body that can hold gold reserves according to Roger gold can be seen in. Roger explains how tendon balls are filled with gold. According to Roger’s research when the tendon bags fell flat they become filled with gold nucleophilic substitution. Here are some of the body parts he has documented that can substitute blood with gold, including:

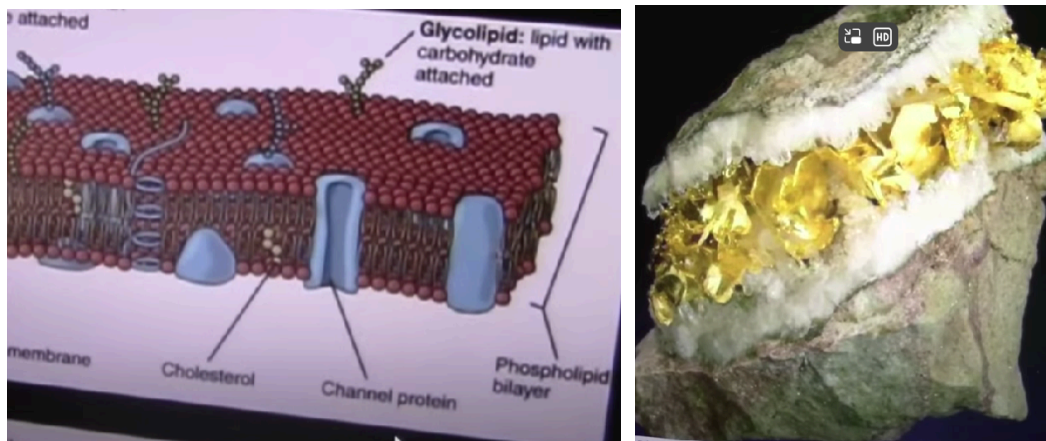

Tendon balls,

Faccia,

Membranes,

And the interstitial highway.

I would go even further than Roger. Have you ever considered that there are heavenly or supernatural beings that might be filled with gold? We all know from the preceding verses that the Prince of Tyre gathers gold and silver in his treasuries. But what about these verses:

And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, take up a lamentation for the prince of Tyre, and say to him, Thus saith the Lord God; Thou art a seal of resemblance, and crown of beauty.

Thou wast in the delight of the paradise of God; thou hast bound upon thee every precious stone, the sardius, and topaz, and emerald, and carbuncle, and sapphire, and jasper, and silver, and gold, and ligure, and agate, and amethyst, and chrysolite, and beryl, and onyx: and thou hast filled thy treasures and thy stores in thee with gold.

Ezekiel 28:4-13 (LXX)

We see that the precious stones are bound UPON him. The phrase “and thou hast filled thy treasures and thy stores in thee with gold” makes it sound if the being mentioned here was able to store gold WITHIN himself. I could be reading this wrong. What if he was not the only one that could treasure gold WITHIN. With what we have uncovered so far I would not put it beyond our scope that some entities had stores of gold within themselves. Now it could obviously also mean within the Tyre region but how does that reconcile with the breastplate imagery that is UPON him?

That would sure explain a lot of the gold discoveries post Noah’s flood and the rest of the biblical timeline. How about the Gold Rushes of the 1800’s?

The Gold Rushes

I wanted to title this section “The Age of Greed” but I think the gold rushes will be able to encapsulate what I was going for in this section. In the Clementine Homilies we do see a slightly different version of the temptations of Yahusha in the desert with HaSatan. Here we see HaSatan claim dominion over gold and silver as well:

*For once the king of the present time (HaSatan) came to our King of righteousness, using no violence, for this was not in his power, but inducing and persuading, because the being persuaded lies in the power of every one. Approaching Him, therefore, as being king of things present, he said to the King of things future, All the kingdoms of the present world are subject to me; also the gold and the silver and all the luxury of this world are under my power...

Clementine Homily 8:21

HaSatan claims, along with the kingdoms, silver and gold have been given over him. If you are reading this you are probably onboard with the release of HaSatan happening somewhere between 1500 and 1800. When HaSatan is released and it causes a mud flood and death on the surface of the earth would those individuals not be decaying in the earth? A miniature Noah's flood if you will all over again with all the energy of the soil with the mixture of blood and limbs. So when did the gold rushes happen? Take a look below.

Oddly they occurred, for most part, during the same century. According to realclearhistory.com Gold rushes have been documented as far back as ancient Rome, however most of the major gold rushes occurred during the modern era, which runs roughly from 1500 AD to the present. That brings us right into the timeframe of the ending of the MK (Millennial Kingdom) and leading up to the release of HaSatan. Before I get ahead of myself here is a summary of the major gold rushes during that period:

Gold Rush	Destination	Timeframe
Brazilian Gold Rush	Minas Gerais, Brazil	1690s - late 19th century
Victoria Gold Rush	Victoria, Australia	1851-1869
Nome Gold Rush	Nome, Alaska	1899-1909
Tierra del Fuego Gold Rush	Tierra del Fuego, Chile	1883-1906

Siberia Gold Rush	Siberia, Russian Empire	1820-1830
Klondike Gold Rush	Yukon, Canada	1896-1899
Witwatersrand Gold Rush	Transvaal, South Africa	1886-1902
Otago Gold Rush	Otago Hills, New Zealand	1861-1864
Western Australia Gold Rushes	Western Australia	1885-1893
California Gold Rush	California, United States of America	1848-1855
Fraser River Gold Rush	Canada	1858-1860
Pike's Peak Gold Rush	Colorado, United States of America	1858-1861

The most popular one is the California Gold Rush. The largest gold deposit though was found in Mzansi or South Africa (for the non-South African readers). This is about 100 years after the French Revolution (1789-1799) which I think is a great contender for the inauguration ceremony of HaSatan.

There is something quite odd about the timeframe, wouldn't you say? The earliest happens in Brazil. Which is about a century before the rest, but still. That one is the exception. The rest spans across the same century. Why the 1800's? There were no massive technological advances. It seems like they were still using very similar tools and techniques than 3 or perhaps even 4 centuries earlier. Why now? How does science or archaeology or history explain the amount of gold rushes (virtually) within the same century? It does not, because I think the answer is rather in scripture.

When the thousand years are completed, Satan will be released from his prison, and will come out to deceive the nations which are in the four corners of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together for the war; the number of them is like the sand of the seashore. And they came up on the broad plain of the earth and surrounded the camp of the saints and the beloved city, and fire came down from heaven and devoured them.

Revelation 20:7-9

The gold rushes also happen to be after the Nuremberg cosmic event. I am thinking that the lust for gold and the pursuit of the rebellion leader could have marked the end of the Millennial Kingdom. We will see how that spirit of gold lust was released in France and spread throughout the entire plain of the earth.

The first traceable catalogue of earthquakes published in Britain is that of Fleming (1580). On 6 April 1580 a large earth-quake occurred with epicentre in the Dover Straits, which caused considerable damage in England, France and the Low Countries, and a few deaths (Neilson et al., 1984a; Melville et al., 1996). It was strongly felt in London, where two children were killed by falling stones. Such was the impact of the event in the English capital, that a number of pamphlets were rushed to the press, describing the earthquake, and generally exhorting people to reform their ways, given this warning of God's displeasure (Ockenden, 1936).

A critical history of British earthquakes by Roger M.W. Musson

Remember the importance of earthquakes to expose gold deposits? I am 100% sure the event of HaSatan coming up from the abyss should shake'n up something close to a 10 on the Richter's scale. Keep in mind it was not developed until 1935. Before the Richter's scale seismic assessments were categorized using various seismic intensity scales, such as the Rossi-Forel scale or later the Mercalli intensity scale. In my opinion this was a means to hide seismic events from before the 1900's. If you were to ask the intel-net it would only point out the ones from the 1900's. Give it a test. You will have to dig deeper to find the true historical accounts that match up with the events of the Bible.

You can read about it, see it portrayed in movies, or be told about it, but there is nothing like seeing it in person when gold fever takes over an entire personality.

It's a kind of consummate greed which changes a veteran outdoorsman to a wild-eyed, scheming, secretive, intense introvert who could lead himself and others to destruction and death through his greed. I have seen it.

Tiahuanaco was found by Pizarro and his band of plunderers in the 1520's. The gold fever had evidently taken over his entire expedition of 13 to 16 men, for they proceeded to vandalize almost everything in sight. They smashed thousands of statues searching for gold. There were huge silver bolts of up to several tons each, passing through massive stone monoliths. You guessed it: they broke up the monoliths in order to obtain the silver bolts.

The catalogue is presented in the form of free text, moving from one event to another, rather than as any sort of table. Because of the interest of this very early catalogue, it may be as well to list the events in full. The earthquakes mentioned are as follows:

- «Reign of Eugenius» - London.
- March 1077 - all England.
- 1084 - unspecified.
- 1165 - Ely, Norfolk, Suffolk.
- 1179 - Oxenhall, near Darlington.
- Monday the week before Easter 1185 - all England; damage at Lincoln.
- January-February 1199 - Scotland.
- 1222 - Warwickshire.
- 1247 - London.
- 1248 - Bath and Wells.
- 1250 - St Albans.
- 1266 - Ireland.
- 1274 - various places in England.
- 1275 - all England, damage at Glastonbury.
- 1382 - two earthquakes in various places, especially Kent.
- 1563 - Lincoln and Northampton.
- 6 April 1580 - London.

The Adam And Eve Story: The History Of Cataclysms by Chan Thomas

Gold fever is a thing. It does make people go bonkers. It might be the spirit of greed or Mammon if you will that drives it. Even the writer of the of the Book of the Son of Fire knew that:

Nevertheless, it is true also that we may keep the Truth, as we find it, secured to ourselves. If a man seek for unwrought gold and find it, he has not made it, yet it is still his. Is it not also written, 'Gold is the treasure of a lifetime, but Truth is the treasure of eternity. Gold can nourish the body, but it may poison the soul.'

Kolbrin: Book on the Son of Fire 13

Now contrast Thomas' account with what the scripture has to say:

*And now, hearken to me, my children, And walk in singleness of your heart, For I have seen in it all that is well-pleasing to the Lord. The single-(minded) man coveteth not gold, He overreacheth not his neighbour, He longeth not after manifold dainties, He delighteth not in varied apparel.

The Testament of Issachar 4:1-2

My (Wisdom's) fruit is better than gold, even fine gold, and my yield than choice silver.*

Proverbs 8:19 (ESV)

Whoever is greedy for unjust gain troubles his own household, but he who hates bribes will live.*

Proverbs 15:27 (ESV)

*The righteousness of the upright will deliver them,
But the treacherous will be caught by their own greed.

Proverb 11:6 (NASB1995)

It would now probably be a good time to talk about Mammon and what the Bible has to say on the subject.

Mammon

I think it is vital before we descend further down the mine shaft to be aware of the Spirit of Mammon. This is some that the Ruach will now prompt you to become aware of. If there is a drivenness and authority given to money that is exceeding the purpose Yah has placed it there for it should be prayerfully considered and repented of. Did Yah place fiat currency here in the first place? I don't think so. Yah created gold and silver that might be something you would want to add to your financial portfolio - Yah's money.

The verse that comes to mind should be

"No one is able to serve two masters, for either he shall hate the one and love the other, or else he shall cleave to the one and despise the other. You are not able to serve Elohim and mammon. "Because of this I say to you, do not worry about your life, what you shall eat or drink, or about your body, what you shall put on. Is not life more than the food and the body more than the clothing?"

Matthew 6:24-25 (TS2009)

Elohim is an entity and therefore it is not a stretch to accredit Mammon as an entity. There is also another interpretation for Mammon that we will tackle in a moment. Clements say it like this:

What then must we do that we may attain unto it?—We must order our conversation holily and righteously, and look upon all the things of this world as none of ours, and not desire them. For, if we desire to possess them we fall from the way of righteousness.

*For thus saith the Lord, No servant can serve two masters. If therefore we shall desire to serve God and Mammon it will be without profit to us. For what will it profit, if one gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?

2 Clement 3:4-5

The Book of the Natsarim gives a different take on the expression altogether:

"Hoard no earthly treasures which can be destroyed by moths and decay, or may be stolen by thieves. It is far better to establish a storehouse in the Heavens, for there you can accumulate treasures beyond reach of these things. A man's heart is never far from the place where he establishes his credit."*

"Providing you view everything optimistically, maintaining a cheerful and confident outlook, you will radiate assurance. If you do not, you will shed despondency and gloom wherever you go. No man has ever succeeded in serving two masters, for his loyalties must lie with one or the other. Neither can a man have two prime objectives; he must aim for an earthly goal or a spiritual one."

The Book of the Natsarim (TBON) 9:47-48

TBON contrasts earthly pursuits with spiritual ones. I am not sure if I am in 100% agreement although I do see the point the writer is trying to bring home. We can be consumed by our earthly pursuit at the cost of our spiritual and eternal wellbeing. Yahusha does give similar warnings throughout the gospel accounts.

Other, more secular accounts describe Mammon as one of the seven evil Princes. According to gods-and-demons.fandom.com:

Mammon, also known as Mammyun and Prince of Greed, is one of the Seven Princes of, being the Demon who personifies and represents greed, as well as avarice, wealth, abundance, prosperity, wealth and injustice, sometimes interpreted as a deity.

Fandom.com goes on to explain:

Mammon is able to turn human beings into gold statues with a glance or touch as a second ability if a being who touches the petrified one petrifies into a gold statue instantly.

Mammon is capable of firing a blast of energy from his hands and mouth that can make a human or sorcerer and witch a statue of gold or make it completely diamond or platinum by killing the opponent.

Though I do not place much weight on this explanation it does tie into the fallen angels-energy theory that we discussed earlier. They could possibly have wielded some turning-people-into-gold-powers. That made me wonder if fallen entities can themselves manifest as gold? Here is something interesting for you. We find HaSatan joining the party when Aharon casts the golden calf. Well in the Targum it seems as though it just pops out of the fire:

*And I (Aharon) said to them, Whoever hath gold, let him deliver and give it to me; and I cast it into the fire, and Satana entered into it, and there came out of it the similitude of this calf! And Mosheh saw that the people were naked; for they had been stripped by the hand of Aharon of the holy crown which was upon their head, inscribed and beautified with the great and glorious Name; and that their evil report would go forth among the nations of the earth, and they would get to them an evil name unto their generations.

Exodus 32:24-25 (Jonathan Targum)

HaSatan and probably his goonies are able to enter gold. Let that sink in. I wonder if that is the reason it needed to be refined through fire. Even today some of the most popular pieces of jewelry if you were to go on a Jewish site would be the Hamsa (open hand featuring an all-seeing eye in the center) and the Star of David (two overlaid equilateral triangles that form a six-pointed star).

*And Azazel taught men to make swords, and knives, and shields, and breastplates, and made known to them the metals (of the earth) and the art of working them, and bracelets, and ornaments, and the use of antimony, and the beautifying of the eyelids, and all kinds of costly stones, and all colouring tinctures.

Enoch 8:1

Kabbalistic (Jewish mystical) teachings dig the Star of David and Hamsa. Both have obvious occult roots yet they claim the symbols possess protective powers that could repel spirits and demons - a 100% inverted reality. I wonder who was dishing out some free jewelry artisan classes back in the day? Seems like Azazel was at it. Furthermore with find a Lilith/goddess connection to amulets in Legends of the Jews (LOTJ):

*Lilith flew away from Adam, and vanished in the air. Adam complained before God that the wife He had given him had deserted him, and God sent forth three angels to capture her. They found her in the Red Sea, and they sought to make her go back with the threat that, unless she went, she would lose a hundred of her demon children daily by death. But Lilith preferred this punishment to living with Adam. She takes her revenge by injuring babes--baby boys during the first night of their life, while baby girls are exposed to her wicked designs until they are twenty. days old The only way to ward off the evil is to attach an amulet bearing the names of her three angel captors to the children, for such had been the agreement between them.

Legends of the Jews Volume 1 Chapter 2

To make it even worse, according to the Exodus Targum, it seems like the golden crowns of the people (the royal and holy priesthood) were stripped for calf-making purposes. Talk about throwing your authority into the water or fire in this case and spoiling a perfect good relationship with Yah. It is an evident and applicable warning for us still today, just like Adam and Havah.

Except for Mammon being an entity, mammon can also refer to a dishonest means of gaining wealth. For instance:

But thou shouldst elect from all the people men of ability who fear the Lord, upright men who hate to receive the mammon of dishonesty, and superappoint them to be heads of thousands, of hundreds, of fifties, and of tens.

Exodus 18:21 (Targum Jonathan)

And Jehuda said to his brethren, What profit of mammon should we have if we killed our brother, and covered his blood?

Genesis 37:26 (Targum Jonathan)

*Blessed is the man that hath been found perfect; And that hath not gone aside after mammon.

Sirach 31:8

If I read these three passages correctly, it seems to be that Mammon is the wealth that is gained through dishonest means. Often preceded by innocent blood shed. Is that what Yahusha meant? And is that how the entity of Mammon is worshiped or embodied? I cannot say for certain.

Trusting in wealth makes us servants of wealth. We as His people need to be trusting in Yah. Yes, we do need money to get by. Your landlord will probably not accept "I am trusting in Yah" as a good explanation if you cannot pay your rent come month end. I get that. However, when our possessions possess you it is a problem. I am also starting to think it is probably one of the reasons Yahusha didn't have a house. He would probably have to be doing maintenance over weekends and that would not have gelled well with his ministry.

Either way, if you consider Mammon as an entity or a dishonest means of gaining wealth, there is a great test. If gold was placed here by Elohim or if it was the power of fallen elohim like Mammon that turned things to gold or just the decaying remains of previous civilizations, I am convinced the gold rushes were a test. Likewise we see a similar scenario with manna in the wilderness to test Yashar'El. After the end of the MK and the mudfloods gold resurfaced around the world more or less at the same time. Humanity stood before a test of selfishness and greed vs. selflessness and generosity. A sticky test indeed that was failed by most. A test wherein most of the resources were filtered to the most greedy of global controllers.

Automatons and the Image of the Beast

Historically speaking, there can be a solid case made for the demonic possession of gold automatons. Automaton were to be found in the temples of Ancient Greece. We can also find accounts in India written in Sanskrit about these automations. Most of it was used to worship or serve paga elohim. Greek or other pagan temples, either way there are probably plenty of demons to work with running around in the pagan temples. Historically, there are three golden automatons that come to mind:

- The Golden Maidens of Hephaestus

Hephaestus crafted beautiful golden maidens to act as his own attendants. Hephaestus produced golden walking statues which resembled young living women to serve him. They had their own voices, strength and helped him to walk.

"[Hephaestus left his bellows] took up a heavy stick in his hand, and went to the doorway limping. And in support of their master moved his attendants. These are golden, and in appearance like living young women. There is intelligence in their hearts, and there is speech in them and strength, and from the immortal gods they have learned how to do things. These stirred nimbly in support of their master."

Homer, Iliad

Very similar to the current AI developments, Hephaestus's golden maidens were not just beautiful, but had their own form of intelligence. It allowed them to speak and also to develop new skills.

Similar to the created golden maiden he made the Celedones. The Celedones were animated, golden statues that could sing. They became known as the magical singers standing at the Temple of the God Apollo at Delphi. The singing automatons would be in the shape of either beautiful women, wryneck birds, or a combination of the two.

- The Golden (and Silver) Guard Dogs of Alcinous

King Alcinous was a king of Greek mythology. Alcinous was also owner of two automatons in the form of watchdogs. These two dogs, one made of gold, and the other of silver, were to be found at the front door of King Alcinous' palace, and were said to be able to prevent unwanted guests from entering the palace. Homer's Odyssey, it describes:

*Golden doors closed the palace in [the palace of Alkinous], and silver posts rose above the threshold; the lintel was of silver, the door-handle was of gold. Each side of the door were gold and silver watch dogs, deathless forever and did not age.

- The Golden Tripods of Mount Olympus

Hephaestus again crafted the Golden Tripods of Mount Olympus. Homer would tell of 20 golden tripods on wheels, which were put to use during the banquets of the gods, for these tripods assisted Hebe and Ganymede in the distribution of food and drink, fetching and carrying under their own steam. If you know Ganymede's connection to the release of HaSatan and the French Revolution you might know where this is going. If you don't you can read it in my Passover and the Unicorn paper. Back to the golden tripods. In Iliad, Homer writes the following:

"[Hephaestus] was sweating as he turned here and there to his bellows busily, since he was working on twenty tripods which were to stand against the wall of his strong-founded dwelling. And he had set golden wheels underneath the base of each one so that of their own motion they could wheel into the immortal gathering, and return to his house: a wonder to look at. These were so far finished, but the elaborate ear handles were not yet on. He was forging these, and beating the chains out."

Way before Musk's Teslas and other AI jazz Hephaestus had it figured out. That is what you call room service of the Olympian gods. These wheeled tripods would wheel themselves in and out of the dining halls of the gods as they were required.

Hephaestus was said to have built the gigantic bronze man, Talos. It was this image that made me think of the image of the beast that was given life in Revelation.

*And he deceives those who dwell on the earth because of the signs which it was given him to perform in the presence of the beast, telling those who dwell on the earth to make an image to the beast who had the wound of the sword and has come to life. And it was given to him to give breath to the image of the beast, so that the image of the beast would even speak and cause as many as do not worship the image of the beast to be killed.

Revelation 13:14-15 (NASB1995)

Can you remember the amount of gold tallied at one point with Solomon's riches? In first Kings 10 it says:

And the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold.

Triple six. The mark of the beast or his number if you will. Is it not profound that it all connects back to gold again? Nero had his own image erected that was possibly animated as Revelation 13 says. We know that the "tech" of demonic possession existed back then and Revelations 13 was possibly a 1st century reality for believers. This is where the gold magic comes in. Remember what Simon Magus mentioned in this conversation with Peter according to the Clementine Homilies:

I can give the breath of life to images so that those who see them shall think that they are human beings.

I really do think there is a connection there. Maybe you feel I have not provided sufficient evidence for the demonic possession of gold or precious stones but I will soon enough. By saying this I am not saying all gold and all precious metals are under demonic possession. Here is something for your consideration.

Kundalini Spirit: Holy Spirit Counterfeit

Just like we have the feminine divine in the Ruach HaKodesh, a.k.a Wisdom, there is a counterpart in the camp of the Enemy. Fortuna is as good a candidate as any if I had to pin a name to her. Some, in recent times, have come to know her by her Hindu name, Kundalini. Among other manifestations including serpent-like manifestations, the same churches have reported jewels and gold dust manifestations. The Kundalini spirit has manifested gold and jewels in many churches. It is difficult for me to say that it would be true in all cases but I have some evidence to prove the working of a false Holy Spirit or Kundalini in many of these churches. With what we currently know it seems like one of the fallen ones have been granted access to those churches. Here are some pictures from Cobus van Rensburg, the glory cloud at Bethel and precious stones manifesting in a church in Puerto Rico.

This is how alchemy works in my current understanding, there is a spiritual element or energy needed in some capacity to release the manifestation. Look at the account of the Clementine Homilies how the Genesis 6 incursion happened:

For of the spirits who inhabit the heaven, the angels who dwell in the lowest region, being grieved at the ingratitude of men to God, asked that they might come into the life of men, that, really becoming men, by more intercourse they might convict those who had acted ungratefully towards Him, and might subject every one to adequate punishment. When, therefore, their petition was granted, they metamorphosed themselves into every nature; for, being of a more godlike substance, they are able easily to assume any form. So they became precious stones, and goodly pearl, and the most beauteous purple, and choice gold, and all matter that is held in most esteem. And they fell into the hands of some, and into the bosoms of others, and suffered themselves to be stolen by them...

Clementine Homily 8:12

There you have it. Fallen entities do manifest as precious materials, like gold and other precious stones. A very appropriate counterfeit for the stones on the High Priest's breastplate indeed. So imagine what HaSatan and the summoning of his legions would have looked like? Except for them floating in the lowest heaven causing distress and nothing but trouble, is there a possibility that they would have manifested as gold and precious stones post the release of HaSatan?

Would you look at the striking resemblance between Lawrence's painting and the statue of liberty. Tell me it is not the same person. If you are calling it Mithras, Apollo, Helios or HaSatan you know this dude is bad news. Of course Lawrence's painting is titled "Satan Summoning His Legions," if that was not was not already evident. There is the French connection again to the celebration of the release of HaSatan.

In Domenico di Michelino's 1465 fresco he illustrates Dante displaying a written copy of something, towards MK-looking architecture. Maybe he is pointing to the verse that we have come to know as Revelation 20 pertaining to HaSatan's little season. Many would say it is rather a copy of Dante's Divine Comedy. 'Dante' is a Latin name that means everlasting. There is probably more to be said on Dante's Divine Comedy. Florence is the city in the picture. To me it marks ground zero for the release of HaSatan and the fall of the Millennial Kingdom. Unlike the purgatory explanation, for the events happening on the left hand side, it rather seems like the subterranean entities are being released on the surface of the earth. The crust of the earth seems to have torn open - earthquakes again.

I am convinced with the amount of artwork, the cult of reason, goddess worship, festivals of the supreme being and the revolution, the release of Satan and possibly his legions were celebrated in France around the end of 1700's. We already covered the importance of earthquakes to shake the crust of the earth and expose or loosen gold deposits. I wonder if the release of Satan from the abyss could have led to not only multiple earthquakes but also the gold rushes we see mainly throughout the 1800's. Except for that, could some entities have manifested as gold and precious stones as the Clementine Homilies explain? Along with possible release of HaSatan we can also witness a demonic release of other entities. There are a number of paintings portraying evil spiritual activity in an extravagant way. Especially pertaining to Fortuna.

Fortuna & The Release of HaSatan

Plenty of work has been done on The release of Satan in regards to timing and location and so forth. Just like we have Wisdom as the Feminine Divine, HaSatan has a partner in crime, whether you call her Lilith or Jezebel or the woman riding the beast, today we will look at Fortuna. If we have time I also get into Lady 'Liberty'. It could possibly be the same entity, however this is an entirely wider scope investigation. We can find many different depictions of Fortuna. Do you remember the important part the sun plays in alchemy? Or perhaps you recall the pictures of the alchemical illustrations of the lion swallowing the sun. Remember as per the explanation the sun, moon and stars are all different spirits or ruachot. Well, in many depictions we see Fortuna wearing a sun bracelet or a sun-like accessory. Which I have a hunch indicates, supernatural intervention via the works of HaSatan. The goddess, Furtuna, is supposed to embody fortune and prosperity and so forth. Of course this is false fortune and false prosperity not the kind that Yah promises for instance here:

*“But you shall remember יהוה your Elohim, for it is He who gives you power to get wealth, in order to establish His covenant which He swore to your fathers, as it is today.

Deuteronomy 8:18 (TS2009)

In this specific statute of the goddess, Fortuna, we see a kingdom crown on her head. It is probably to indicate that the Kingdom structures, at least some have been usurped by her or someone she is acquainted with. The crown on her head is complete with walls and gates. First time I have seen one of those crowns. It is not a coincidence in my opinion. We also see that she is covered in a type of gold dust. Especially on her hair like the Kundalini manifestations we have seen in previous pictures.

In classic Masonic style, she is blindfolded. This may possibly be an indication of those that are repossessing the kingdom structures in our part of the realm. The Masonic-link is a strong one when it comes to the parties involved in celebrating the release of HaSatan and covering up the Millennial Kingdom. Who is truly blind though? Scripture has much to say on blindness, especially the spiritual kind of blindness. If you cannot see spiritually, now would be a good time to ask the Most High to apply some eye salve to open up your eyes.

Jesus answered and said to him, “Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born again he cannot see the kingdom of God.”

John 3:3

...to open their (Yabudim’s) eyes so that they may turn from darkness to light and from the dominion of Satan to God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins and an inheritance among those who have been sanctified by faith in Me.’

Acts 26:18 (NASB1995)

All I can say is my Yah give you and me eyes to see and ears to hear. We cannot afford to be lost in spiritual blindness not to mention allowing the Masonic Brothers to blindfold us.

FRUIT OF THE LOOM®

FRUIT OF THE LOOM®

Most ladies would prefer the standard handback, but Fortuna is rocking a different number. The woven spiral-like bag with money or sometimes wheat peeling out should be familiar to you if you have been looking into Mandela Effects. Many have argued if it was or wasn't in the Fruit of the Loom logo. According to the online dictionary the cornucopia is:

A symbol of prosperity and wealth consisting of a goat's horn overflowing with flowers, fruit, and corn. The cornucopia, or horn of plenty, is still used today in imagery of abundance and good fortune.

It seems like most English dictionaries have it as a hollowed out goat's horn and not the wicker basket as we see in most pictures. Which makes it very intriguing on an esoteric level. It could indicate wealth obtained through the power (horn) of HaSatan (the goat). That would make it a mammon-connection in my view.

Probably the most iconic prop that Fortuna or Lady Luck always carries around or has close by is the classic wheel of fortune. Depending on where you are on the wheel, the position on the wheel determines your fate or fortune. If you stand on top of the wheel, life is great. If you are at the bottom you are hanging on for dear life. Lame. Now, the wheel of fortune is the origin of the golden wheel and later adopted into palm reading and fortune telling. This circles us back to the Hamsa, an open hand featuring an all-seeing eye in the center. Remember, the Hamsa is one of the most prominent and ubiquitous pieces of Jewish jewelry. There is our gold connection back to the supernatural alchemical source or a picture of it at least. The hamsa was believed to keep away evil spirits or negative energy but in my opinion it does exactly the opposite.

I know many used to love watching win-n-spin or the lottery draw. I never quite got swept up into the vibe. If you as a believer still partake at Fortuna's table by means of the lottery, bets, slot machines or any similar form of gambling it would be my biblical duty to reprimand you as a believer and repent of such behavior. Lady Luck is not on our side, she belongs in the camp of the Enemy. We trust in Yah bro, not the lotto numbers.

On the right is an illustration from Le vingtième siècle: la vie électrique by Albert Robida (1893). Robida's work is in a post-MK and post-mudflood period if you were to ask me. As you can probably tell by the title of the work, Robida was French and the work was on the electrical advances within that age. It did not hold back on depicting the downside of the industrial revolution. Lost history, lost culture, lost values, losing true wealth and so much more. How Fortuna will provide for the poor man to only barely make it.

In the picture on the right you can see in the background there is a silhouette of some large factories indicating the onset of the industrial revolution. In the circle or perhaps full moon is the old pristine countryside that has now been reduced to only a vague memory. Fortuna's cornucopia is flipped upside down and all the wealth has been lost. Fortuna is still looking high and mighty floating on her wheel of fortune and I see she has a new hairstyle. A man is reaching deep into the cornucopia trying to find something to feed his family while being attacked with pitchforks. There seems to have been a lot of spiritual activities at play during the French Revolution. Most sources will tell you it happened during the 1760's. Right on time and in sync with the French Revolution and the possible release of HaSatan. It seems as though the industrial and French revolution paired with the release of HaSatan was carefully timed to push good men to any point of desperation to either trust Fortuna or revert to ill begotten gains. Both will play into the hands of Mammon or HaSatan. Unfortunately we do not see plenty of artwork of people trusting in Yah or Yahusha in this period.

Did Fortuna or the spirit of fortune if you will, release gold deposits upon the earth post HaSatan's release? Most likely there is a connection. We see the resurgence of the evil eye or Hamsa symbol along with the wheel of fortune or fortune telling. We also see overemphasis on goddess worship or HaSatan's feminine counterpart. There seems to be many Venuses but in this case it is Fortuna. Liberty is another important one for another article. She is opposed to the true feminine Ruach ha Kodesh. Fortuna has been active and leading many to death via the avenue of their own fleshly desires.

*"I have spread my bed with coverings, coloured linens of Mitsrayim.

*"I have sprinkled my bed with myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon.

"Come, let us take our fill of carnal-love until morning; Let us delight ourselves with love.

"For my husband is not at home; He has gone on a long journey;

"He took a bag of silver with him; He comes home on the day of the covering."

With her many words she leads him astray, With her smooth lips she seduces him.

*He goes after her immediately, Like an ox he goes to the slaughter, And as in chains, a fool to the punishment, Till an arrow strikes through his liver; Like a bird rushing into a snare, And did not know it would take his life.

Proverbs 8:16-23(TS2009)

Mary Magdalene's Money Pouch

There is much to be said about the goddess worship in France. To really fully grasp what was going down in France in what we know as the 1700's we will need to set the spiritual tone and lay the proper foundation. According to ancient French and Christian legends alike, Mary Magdalene landed in France around 42 CE. More specifically she and her entourage, including the once dead Lazarus, landed in the South of France, Camargue.

Many of the French Gothic cathedrals, including Notre Dame, were dedicated to Mary Magdalene until the 1200's. This would place it right inside MK timeframe. The symbology and esoteric teachings hidden within these magnificent structures are intriguing. Furthermore the term "Notre Dame" means "Our Lady" in French. The Catholic Church associates it with Mother Mary, although some writers instead have suggested that it originally referred to Mary Magdalene. Inside Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris, there's a statue of Saint Joan of Arc placed there by surviving 15th-century Templars. If those were the last remaining faithful to Yahusha during the MK doing a last round and dropping a statue off a Mary's house I don't know. This statue features a key symbol linking Joan to Mary Magdalene. Could this possibly be Mary dressed in battle array? She gives me the Revelation-14- and-144 000 virgins-vibes if you are asking me.

There is also the sling bag hanging from Joan's left thigh. Apparently the pouch hanging from her belt mirrors the iconographic "money pouch" traditionally depicted on Mary Magdalene's belt. I will have to dig deeper as I could not find much aside from your standard Templar material. If that is the case there is your gold/money/wealth connection but I think this time it is connected to the true Holy Spirit and enables us to obtain true spiritual wealth and wellbeing.

How much better it is to get wisdom than gold! And to get understanding is preferable to silver. The highway of the straight is to turn away from evil;

He who guards his life watches over His way.

Proverbs 16:16 (TS2009)

If ever there were to be an onslaught on the feminine divine this was the place. France, unfortunately, became renowned for their cults and especially goddess worship during the 1700's. Do you see what the enemy does? Yah sets a pendulum in perfect motion and then the Enemy comes offset it in either one direction or the other.

Conclusion and Cautionary Tale

Le vingtième siècle: la vie électrique by Albert Robida (1893) is such a great book to page through and I would highly recommend it to any truth seeker that is trying to make heads or tails of the point in His-story we are at. Below once again there is an antagonist-looking industrial revolution machine holding a lightbulb on a stick. In the foreground you can see the death of the Olde World. A lady lays on top of the ruins of the MK-architecture. Maybe it could be Wisdom, I do not know. Or even the woman who flees to the wilderness in Revelation.

And she bore a male child who was to shepherd all nations with a rod of iron. And her child was caught away to Elohim and to His throne. And the woman fled into the wilderness, where she has a place prepared by Elohim, to be nourished there one thousand two hundred and sixty days.

Revelation 12:5-6

I can't be entirely sure. Below her you see a guy planting some explosives - dynamite no doubt. You can see a riderless horse in the foreground hauling away books with the words "HISTORY" and "TRADITIONS" on the cover pages. On the right hand lower corner we see a man dismantling an angel type figure with the word 'IDEAL' above his head. What exactly the history, traditions and ideals are that are being hauled away should definitely be uncovered. It is evident we are being lied to as always about our history and that it is one massive cover up of something more ideal than what we are currently led to believe.

With the knowledge of the gold rushes and diamond rushes could all have been orchestrated by HaSatan. Just a reminder of the trap that lies in gold or money in our case. There is entire Israelite tribe that totally misses out on the New Jerusalem experience. Who, you might be thinking. If you go read the account of Revelation 7 you would realize Dan is missing. Why? How could the entire tribe just be cut off? Here is some additional information we will need to complete the puzzle.

And these four tribes, Dan and Naphtali, Gad, and Asher, are camped in ancient Havilah where there is gold (and they are in good places and established in the kingdom of Pharaoh, government of Hauran, and they trust in their Creator first and God with their help. And these tribes place their hand upon the neck of their enemies, and every year they make war with seven kingdoms and seven lands. And the names of these lands are Thausena and Kamtav and Kovav and Triangi and Takul and Karmav and Kaalum (with variations in other narratives) and they are beyond the rivers of Kush. And these four tribes, they have gold and silver and precious stones, many sheep and cattle and camels and donkeys, and they sow and reap and dwell in tents. And whenever they wish they journey and camp with their tents from border to border a journey of two days upon two days, and in the place where they encamp there is no place that a foot may enter and they encamp only in fields and vineyards).

The Book of Eldad HaDani 2:15

These four tribes were blessed by the Most High to have an abundance of gold and silver and precious stones, many sheep and cattle and camels and donkeys. But back to why was Dan excluded from NJ?

Just like me you have also heard many unsatisfactory explanations to this mystery. Here follows the best explanation and a cautionary tale for some:

*And all nations shall gather together in the heart of the earth to make war with the LORD, even the almighty king of heaven and earth. Woe, woe, woe unto the chief princes of the earth, even unto the seed of Dan, who has made gold their god and a lie their refuge:

Who have said among themselves: the LORD is no god wherein we should fear him, for by our mighty power have we become gods ourselves and have spread abroad ourselves over all the earth. Yet shall they be judged and cut off from among the sons of Jacob.

Thus says the LORD: The wicked plot in vain. And they shall drink from the cup of vanity which they have grasped: for the LORD himself shall utterly destroy them all by the brightness of his terrible presence.

Book of the Two Pearls 5:7-9

Ouch! Dan is counted among the kings of the earth and receives a similar judgment. Even though Dan was greatly situated for gold extraction and had plenty to work with it seems that many of the inhabitants became greedy. Making gold their god and trusting in a lie. I wonder if they were practicing alchemy. If they were, is there any evidence of where they could obtain the knowledge from? Except for the fallen ones the Legends of the Jews (LOTJ) offers an alternative explanation:

The Danites admitted, they had taught their children out of the books of the Amorites, which they had hidden then under Mount Abarim, where Kenaz actually found them. The Naphtalites confessed to the same transgression, only they had concealed the books in the tent of Elah, and there they were found by Kenaz. The Gadites acknowledged having led an immoral life, and the sinners of Asher, that they had found, and had hidden under Mount Shechem, the seven golden idols called by the Amorites the holy nymphs the same seven idols which had been made in a miraculous way after the deluge by the seven sinners, Canaan, Put, Shelah, Nimrod, Elath, Diul, and Shuah. They were of precious stones from Havilah, which radiated light, making night bright as day.

Legends of the Jews Volume 4.2.5

Could they have obtained alchemical foreknowledge and put it to use when they became greedy? This seems to indicate post HaSatan's release. Dan is included among the kings of the earth, if you have ever wondered why Dan does not make it to New Jerusalem. They deem themselves to be gods and have made gold (or wealth) their refuge. Along with all their identity it seems like Dan loses all sense of reason and cannot distinguish between good and evil to a point of total abandonment to worldliness. If we would pair this up with the account of Dan using the books of the Amorites I do think we are in the alchemical mystery zone. If that is the case, it was enough for Yah to exclude them from New Jerusalem.
