MY name is Noel Joshua Hadley and I am the founder of The Unexpected Cosmology. YASHA'UA Messiah personally called me on this mission back in 2015 and I believe he stands behind our quest for Knowledge, Wisdom, and Truth. A week or so ago I put the call out for community members to send in short testimonials regarding how this ministry has impacted their life. I was almost immediately taken back by how quickly some responded. Freeze frame. Today's date in case you didn't notice is 8/9/26. Perhaps if anything the following statements capture a particular moment in time. Therefore, it seems like a good idea to document them here for posterity purposes.

Thank you everyone who has taken part in and supported the health of this community. If you feel inspired to send in a testimonial, please do so. I would very much like to continue this list.

Years ago I felt strongly that Ruach was asking me to take a deep dive into studying what would become 4 rather strange or unorthodox topics. The validity of the Apocrypha, the changes made to the ancient manuscripts, the false doctrine of the trinity, and the feminine Ruach. I felt very alone with these topics and didn't find many believers who wanted to discuss them until I found the TUC community. I found out that some of them are even more strange than myself and they even invited me to speak of these topics on some of their online shows! Thanks Noel!

TUC came into my life at a time when I needed a safe place where people don't have to agree on everything to be welcomed. No topic is off the table and I've gained much wisdom from these people who cling to the fringes of our Messiah. It's a pretty fringe flock.

Noel and TUC have been a blessing across all four corners of the earth. I love the Paleo Hebrew Torah portions and can't wait for Pam to finish her goal! So much insight, lost in translations, is restored in the Paleo Hebrew!"

While searching for truth about flat earth (biblical cosmology) my family found 'The Unexpected Cosmology' on YouTube. After diving into many of Noel's videos and research, we came to the understanding that the Torah was never abolished. This ministry has changed how we study scripture and has been such a blessing in our lives. I support this ministry so that it can continue to reach others who are seeking Yah's Truth.

My husband and I along with one of our daughters were ‘waking up’ and searching for information on flat earth and mud flood. I know now it was from the Ruach that I stumbled upon The Unexpected Cosmology. The owner/creator Noel Joshua Hadley has an expansive wealth of research and resources on so many scriptural topics. We have learned so much, and feel so blessed to have found him, and to support his teachings.

I am constantly amazed at the amount of resource available to the TUC community. Noel is awesome at putting out interesting information along with his amazing insights. It’s more than just cosmology. Learning so many hidden truths has really opened my eyes, and strengthened my belief and faith.

I started my TUC journey as a passenger [sojourner] seeking truth with Our Way Is The Highway. Wow, that was like.. how many years ago? I first met Noel, quite by coincidence [divine appointment] at The Georgia Guidestones on 9/11/2021. Fast-forward to today, and it’s quite remarkable, yet also humbling to see how far I’ve progressed in my spiritual journey and growth. I’ve made so many valuable friendships here in the TUC community. It’s not only been virtual, but also in-person fellowship. Some of my dearest friends are right here. At this point, I don’t even know what I’d do without my TUC Fam! Our Saturday night gathering is the weekly highlight I always look forward to. The teachings and presentations from Noel are priceless. To my friends and family outside of TUC, I just call it my church. And it truly is. Praise Yah for the blessing that The Unexpected Cosmology is in my life.

I've been a member of TUC long enough now to say with confidence that this ministry is by far the best one I've ever been in. There are so many reasons why I love TUC, so many facets to what makes this group, this community so wonderful to me. From the amazing research, teachings, articles and so on our fearless leader Noel goes, to the endless depths of truths we are all seeking and not afraid to ask and discuss here. To the true sense of family and friendships that have been cultivated among many of us, and the most important is everyone's love for our Creator and our desire to keep His ways, His Torah, to walk in the ancient path of righteous living and the instructions we have been given. It's our love to want to be obedient, to love Yah, Messiah and the Ruach Ha'kodesh, to love others and above all seek HIS truths. I have never been more blessed by a group than I have by The Unexpected Cosmology. What a joy it is to be part of the "Worst Cult Ever".

I discovered The unexpected cosmology while going from one rabbit hole to another at the beginning of 2022. I was waking up to the lies we've been fed for years but most importantly to me, I found Torah. It was the very first time I read the Bible. I was raised Catholic but no one ever encouraged me to read the Bible. Through Noel's awesome research and podcasts and the discussions in the TUC community, I am learning so much. The fact that everyone has a different perspective but are open to sharing and discussing their opinions and research is amazing to me. I just have to discern and dig deeper in my understanding. Praise Yah for this community. I continue to learn new things every week and it's priceless. Thank you Noel. Don't stop doing what you're doing.

I've been part of the TUC community since 2021, not long after stepping away from years of churchianity and beginning my journey of pursuing Torah. From day one, I felt welcomed and that has never changed. What I love most is the respect people have for one another. Everyone is encouraged to study, ask questions, do their own research and come to their own conclusions. We don't all see every topic the same way and that's perfectly okay. There's no pressure to follow a party line and I really appreciate that. I also really admire Noel's heart for shalom. He has a gift for bringing the deeper meaning of Scripture and ancient texts to life in a way that's both thoughtful and engaging. This community has been such a blessing to me, and it's one I can't imagine leaving.

I have been a member of the TUC community for several years. I enjoy being a part of a community where we can discuss many different ideas and explain why we may or may not believe a certain way. We are all in different places in our walk on this narrow path, and being able to talk with others no matter where we are is amazing. No one condemns another for not being in the same place, we are here to support each other in a loving and supportive way. They are the first ones I go to for prayer or when something good happens in my life. It truly feels like a family.

TUC was one of the first ministries that I came across in the search for truth in a world full of deception. Although I have joined many other Torah Christian movement ministries I always end up finding my way back to TUC, just because Noel is one of the few people I know that deep dives on the most controversial and uncomfortable truths, which has attracted like-minded people in his ministry, all working in unison striving to follow a Godly way of living.

Noel's work has brought to attention a great amount of apocryphal books that he is selling through his online store and through his YouTube presentations, which many other ministries are hesitant to approach due to their controversial nature. Don't let Noel's witty sense of humor make you think that he uses that only for his essays, Noel is moldable and open to new ideas and he's no stranger to publicly criticizing himself for many of his old beliefs, while embracing new philosophies and mindsets. That level of humility is a testimony to the blessing of his ever-growing ministry which is an evolution path that I hope he walks on by maintaining his unsatiated curiosity to uncover hidden truths and faithful dedication to his cause.

In a world where Federal Bank bills are skyrocketing he has taken the risk to dedicate his efforts solely on his ministry, so his livelihood depends entirely on his fellowship members...no other words needed here.

The impact this ministry has had on my life is incredible and my only regret is not being able to attend their fellowship often due to time difference between London and US, so I rely on his YouTube videos and books to keep in touch with TUC fellowship and reality."

TUC has fundamentally challenged my beliefs by making me ask whether I had truly sought out the truth or simply accepted what I'd been told was true. It pushed me to dig deeper into the Bible and to stop being afraid of searching outside sources for answers. Along the way, it has opened up so many new topics I'd never even thought to consider before. Most of all, it has deepened my understanding of Scripture and Truth, helping me distinguish genuine faith from beliefs that were really just traditions of the church.

I have been with the TUC community for Quite some time, and my opinion, though not always agreed upon, has always been well received. Never once have I felt unappreciated within this community built around a love that builds up triumphing over a beloved knowledge of truth that may also, from time to time, puff up. Though I know well that Noel has been proven to be overall humble in heart and playful, too.

TUC is by far the most well-rounded community I've ever been part of. The different areas of expertise brought in by members never ceases to amaze and enlighten me. I'd always been taught the scriptures on "many members in one body" were basically the physical running of a church. I'm now seeing plainly how this applies to knowledge, mysteries of the Kingdom, and his love, all tying in to form one body. Do we have it all? Of course not. But we have more now than last year. And I personally will never give up seeking him and his ways. If I did, why would he count me worthy to seek his mysteries in the next life.

"An absolute lifeline to Truth!" That's the best way I can describe my experience with The Unexpected Cosmology.

I'm what some folks might consider an "old hat" in the Torah community. I woke up to Torah around 2010. If you've ever listened to Rob Skiba (and I'm willing to bet the vast majority of people affiliated with TUC have) you might remember his teachings on the Ephriam Awakening. A massive amount of people who woke up to Torah around 2009-2010. The ten lost tribes, who Yah scattered EVERYWHERE, started to wake up to who they really were. (See Deuteronomy 30.) They returned to the ancient paths; they returned to Torah. (If you're not familiar with Rob's Ephriam Awakening, please go look up those teachings. They are fantastic!)

After this first wave of people woke up, another large group came along around 2017 when the Revelation 12 Sign was all the rage. And then a third group hopped on board in 2020 with all the Covid nonsense. It's exciting to see many people waking up to the Torah!

In those early days (2009-2010) there were only a few voices crying in the wilderness as it were, very few people putting out content about Torah. But as more and more people woke up, more teachers and researchers popped onto the scene and the Truther Movement really exploded. I believe it wasn't too long after the Flat Earth topic hit the conspiracy groups that I remember hearing about Noel and The Unexpected Cosmology. Where did I hear him first? Was it with Rob Skiba, Zen Garcia, Adam Fink...? I can't remember, but I do remember liking Noel right off the bat. To me he was a great mix of all the Torah folks I already liked. He digs deep into ancient texts, he isn't afraid of the "taboo" topics, he has a real heart for Yah, and he has just the right amount of dry/sarcastic humor to make me snicker.

I have been following Noel since those early days, and every time a new conspiracy pops up, I find myself almost always agreeing with Noel. And I'm not just agreeing with him because I like him. More often than not, I come to a certain understanding of a topic before Noel does, but our opinions almost always align. And that's why I consider TUC a lifeline to Truth. The confirmations I find through the teachings at TUC help keep me grounded in this crazy Land of Confusion (cue the Genesis song!) The community on the TUC Discord channel is warm and welcoming. Questions are answered and prayer is always available. It's wonderful for newbies to Torah and old hats like me.

I could go on about how Noel and the TUC community helped me get Shelves of Shalom started. In case you don't know, Shelves of Shalom Publishing is the fiction imprint of TUC's non-fiction bookstore. I am grateful to Noel and the whole TUC community! If you love Yah, if you love Torah, if you love conspiracies, or if you just love digging deep into interesting topics, you'll love the TUC community!
